NOTES OF THE WEEK.

FOREIGN JURY .- The Marshal requests us to say that the attendance of foreign jurymen will be required on Monday morning at 10 o'clock. RAIN ON HAWAII .- Captain Doane, of the Prince, informs us that Kau and Kona, Hawaii, have been having copious rains of late.

A LARGE MAIL will be due by the D. C. Murray, our last from San Francisco being up to August 24 -forty-eight days ago. THE D. C. MURRAY sailed hence on the 27th of August, and is therefore now fully due. The loss of quick dispatch in San Francisco. SAILED ON A CRUISE.-The U.S. surveying ship Portsmouth, Capt. Skerrett, sailed on Thursday last for a cruise to the south and west, to be absent two or three months. She will probably call at Hilo on her return from the cruise.

DIDN'T "THUMP."-Capt. Revely of the Robert Cowan, informs us that his vessel did not "thump' two or three times on a reef on her passage to Sydney, as stated in the Gazette. She slightly grazed the bottom, and on examination in the dock at Sydney, her copper was found to be merely scratched.

STILL DRY .- Another week has gone by without any rain in Honolulu, and none of any amount in the valley. We have had signs innumerable and predictions based on the state of the moon-but they have proved to be the merest moonshine. All signs fail in | this red tape about patents, or what harm could rea dry time

PALOLO.-If the new reservoir is built as suggested, it is proposed to line it with the native clay known as palolo. It is very adhesive in its natural state, much like putty, and would make a reservoir quite safe from leakage. A specimen may be seen at this office MUSIC THIS AFTERNOON .- The Band will play at at their shipyard at the foot of Queen street, have about completed a very pretty little vessel, which will be launched in a day or two. She measures about twenty-two tons, is to be schooner rigged, and from her lines we should judge will be a fast sailer as well as a large carrier. She is built for Messrs. Lima & Morris, and is intended for the Oahu coasting trade. Public Stables .- A very great accommodation and convenience to the traveling public and those making their home at the Hawaiian Hotel will be found in the stables recently opened under the charge of Mr. James Dodd. Not only good saddle horses for either ladies or gentlemen can be obtained there, but riding parties can be fitted out with teams in any style. This is one of the necessary adjuncts to a good hotel, and Mr. Dodd will be found just the man to give satisfaction. SUPREME COURT.-The term commenced on Monday, the 6th inst., Judges Hartwell and Widemann on the Bench, the Attorney General appearing for the Crown. The native portion of the calendar was first taken up, Judge Widemann presiding. The following cases were disposed of before the native jury:

not guilty. W. C. Jones for defendant. Rex vs. Poe, Kaiwikusmoo and Kahololio, larceny of animals. Verdict of not guilty. W. C. Jones for Rex vs. Kalua, sexual intercourse with a female under 14 years. Verdict of guilty. W. C. Jones, Harris, attorneys for the estate and R. Keelikolani. W. C. Jones for complainant. GOVERNMENTAL CARELESSNESS.—The old stone building on Queen street, near the corner of Nuuanu, is the property of the government, having come into its possession some twenty-five years ago by the foreclosure of a mortgage held against the historical firm of Ladd & Co. The building is about forty years old, and has apparently had no repairs put on it since it was built. It is classed amongst government | take effect from and after the 1st of January, 1869, warehouses, and being near the wharves is quite authorizing the Collector General of Customs to add often used for the storage of merchandise, for which to all entries presented at this office on which no the government charges a fixed rate, amounting to a charge for commission appears, 24 per cent. for comconsiderable sum per annum. in bodily fear of the man Frank, and the captain stated that he did not want the man to go in the ship. He was fined $25 and ordered to be imprisoned at hard labor for one month. The other two cases were against the colored cook of the American ship Coringa, named Chas. Dixon. He was proved to have assaulted and beaten one of the crew, a mere lad named Halstead, on account of a wordy dispute. A warrant had been issued for Dixon's arrest for this assault, and placed in the hands of Policeman Fehlber. In attempting to serve the warrant Fehlber was assaulted by Dixon, and was obliged to call for assistance, whereby the prisoner was carried bodily to the Station House. In the skrimmage Fehlber lost a handful of his ample whiskers in the grasp of Dixon, which were afterwards picked up and produced in Court. At the Station House, Dixon was extremely violent in language and actions, and wanted to fight the police. Orders were given to put him in irons, which he resisted, successfully for a time, until one native alone subdued his violence very effectually by putting in practice an ancient wrestling trick, known as the lua. Before the Court, Dixon was talkative and saucy, but he

Sir :—In June, 1865, instructions were sent from this office to Consuls Rhodes, at Victoria, B. C., and McCracken, at Portland, Oregon, to see that a charge of 2½ per cent. commissions was added to all invoices not having a charge for commissions that were certified.

that it was not the custom at any other ports where we had Consuls. I would therefore ask your Excellency to approve of a Custom House Regulation to take effect from and after January 1st, 1869, authorizing the Collector Captain Forbes of the Clara Louise, for the S. F. General to add to all entries presented at this office, Chronicle of Sept. 4, from which papers we glean on which no charge for commissions appears, 21 per cent. for commissions. I think the regulation should fix 21 per cent. as the rate expected to appear on all invoices as a charge for commissions, unless it can be shown that a less rate of commissions is established by the Chamber of Commerce at the port where the invoice was made. All our regular merchants who do their business through mercantile houses in Boston, New York, San Francisco and elsewhere, have this charge for commissions attached to their invoices and pay duties Rex vs. Akoni Ana, attempt at rape.
